ICCA FYP @ AIME 2013

YOUTH FORUM EXCHANGE
Speed sharing – a quick one minute precis on their current jobs by each forum participant.

11.00 am  Quick break

11.15 pm  ASIA PACIFIC WRAP: what’s new?
Noor Ahmad Hamid
Regional Director Asia Pacific, ICCA

Noor Hamid is the eyes and ears of the industry in Asia Pacific. No-one better to provide an update on what’s happening around the region, focusing on new developments, revitalised destinations and fresh approaches.
FRESH THINKING FROM INDUSTRY LEADERS
A panel of leading practitioners will share their thoughts on where the industry is headed, what different styles and strategies are being seen in the marketplace and where they will be focusing their efforts in the coming few years. A chance to delve into industry trends, hear what’s working, and what’s on the horizon.

Expert commentators:

OVER TO YOU … CROWD SOURCING
Identification of issues and challenges which are then “advertised” for group discussion. Participants will be asked submit questions or challenges which they would like to see answered or solved, using the power of the forum’s combined knowledge. This is a highly interactive session which allows the audience to set its own agenda, and solve the problems which matter to them. Groups will be asked to present their solutions.

“Revitalise” break

ON THE COUCH WITH MARTIN
SPECIAL GUEST: Martin Sirk, CEO, ICCA

Martin Sirk’s presence at AIME 2013 gives ICCA FYPers a unique opportunity for an intensive consultation session with one of the most knowledgeable industry brains in the business. Hear what Martin thinks about a wide variety of industry issues. Participants will be invited to jump in with their own burning questions, but here are some of Martin’s favourites to kick us off:

- personalisation and the pressures it creates
- why monogamy is out and promiscuous team working is in
- circles of trust and why they’re the critical building blocks of associations like ICCA
- why most marketing in our business is deadly dull.

Close of day’s sessions followed by informal gathering over drinks nearby – optional and own expense.
Day 2
Monday, February 25

8:40 am
START THE DAY ON FIRE!

HOT IDEAS
Participants will be asked to share their favourite new idea from the past 12 months. It could be something you have seen, read, experienced, copied, thought about – anything new you have adopted, adapted, adored … and put into practice in your work.

Participants will also be asked to bring one published article (from a magazine, journal, book or the internet) which they read and found useful. The articles will be combined into one useful take-home reference “book” for all participants.

9.00 am
DOES FRESH THINKING PAY OFF?

This extended session of case studies will feature approaches which demonstrate new thinking in the marketplace and offering participants the opportunity to learn from others. It is intended to stimulate, stretch and revitilise our brains.

"Unplugged" 2012 WEB IN TRAVEL CONFERENCE
Yeoh Siew Hoon is one of the most innovative conference producers in the marketplace. Founder of the stimulating and award winning WIT conference in Singapore, now in its 8th year, Siew Hoon will share her journey when she develops a new program each year and how she continually strengthens her event with fresh ideas.

PCMA 365
US-based global organisation, the Professional Convention Management Association has developed a reputation for delivering cutting edge education for the industry, demonstrated by PCMA365 which is a virtual environment open 24/7/365, built to serve online member education. PCMA’s Sherrif Karamat will explain why audience engagement, attracting new customers and members, creating new revenue streams, and acting as "incubator" for associations and corporations, has fueled the thinking behind this and other innovative approaches being embraced by the association.
PROMOTING A DESTINATION’S IQ: Brains, not just beauty

Melbourne Convention & Visitors Bureau took a big step outside traditional branding when it launched its new Melbourne IQ brand in 2011. CEO Karen Bolinger will explain the thinking behind this strategy and how it has been developed to help profile the destination and win business.

ASIA PACIFIC PRODUCT LAUNCH ROADSHOW

Creating and producing a complex series of events in six locations from Japan to China, India and Australia involved challenges such as developing content to suit the various audiences, touring with augmented reality presentation kits, and working across the various cultures. This case study will not only give an appreciation of the creative and logistical aspects involved, but also illustrate the flexibility required to cater to different client and audience styles, from free-flowing to rigid, as Turningpoint Solutions’ MD Peter Pecotic will explain.

Another case study to be announced.

1:00 pm  Lunch

1:45 pm  AFTERNOON SESSIONS

TECHNOLOGY: SERVANT NOT MASTER

Is the digital world overwhelming you? Or are you a slave to it? How many apps do we need? What is actually working out there which adds value to your marketing and communication strategies, and which helps deliver effective meetings? What is the latest online software delivering and how is it changing the way we work? Are we doomed to drown in RFPS!? Let’s grill some of the experts and see what we can learn. In this session we will invite industry tech guests to demonstrate and discuss the worth of some apps and online software. Bring your favourite electronic device with you!
